Drum major in fur and leather helmet commands musicians with his espontoon.

Uniform in style of Washington's Continental Army.

George Washington had a tin ear. He himself admitted "I can neither sing one of the songs nor raise a single note on any instrument to convince the unbelieving."

Despite his lack of musical ability he would have had little trouble recognizing the music played each year on his birthday at Mount Vernon by the Fife and Drum Corps of the Honor Guard Company, 3rd Infantry (The Old Guard), U.S. Army, Fort Myer, Virginia.

The Corps dresses in exact copies of life and drum corps uniforms of the Revolutionary era—including wigs. The drum major wears a large fur and leather helmet, the Light Infantry Cap, as his badge of distinction, and brandishes an espontoon.

an infantry weapon once carrier by commissioned officers, to convey commands to the musicians.

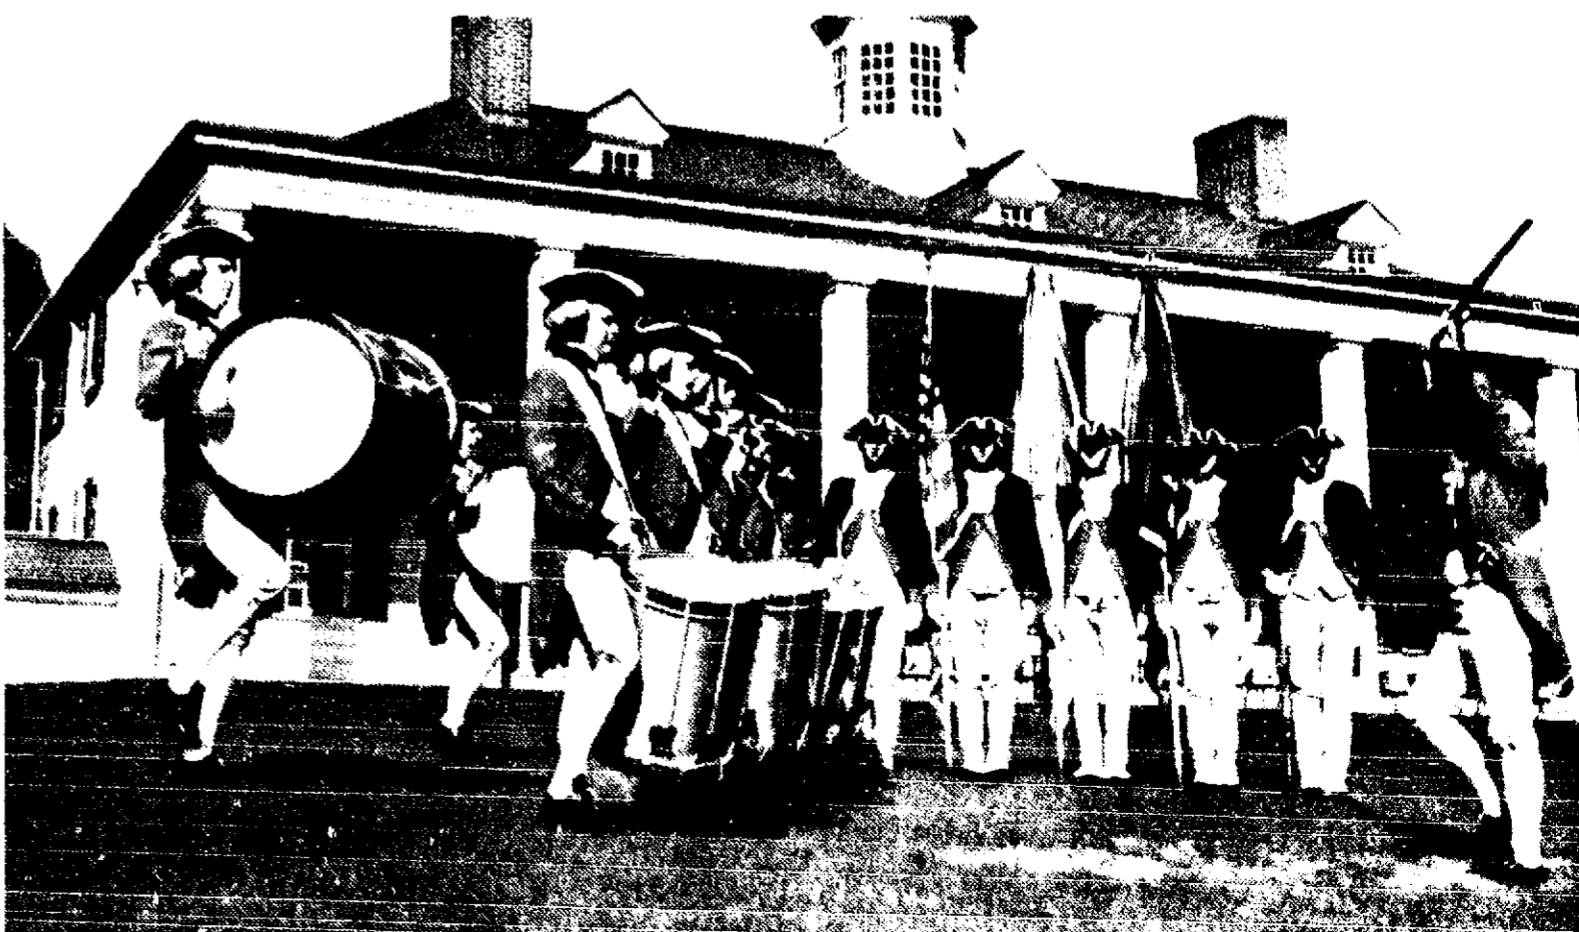

The Corps uses six-hole wooden fifes, hand-made, rope-tensioned drums and bugles, replicas of those used in Revolutionary times. The music includes such tunes as "The World Turned Upside Down," which the British played as they surrendered to Washington at Yorktown, "Yankee Doodle" and other Revolutionary airs—all thoroughly researched before they were added to the repertoire.

In addition to the special birthday music, the band plays at many events in Washington, throughout the nation, and in foreign countries.

A 'Now' Look in Couture

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

These designs are typical of the young thinking incorporated in the new Private Label division of Ernst Strauss. Swiss sculptured maxi coat (left) is coupled with a mini-dress and fibron pants. Wool plaid pantsuit (right) has double-knit short sleeve overblouse.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — California's Ernst Strauss has a national reputation as a master tailor in the coat and suit industry. And now he has launched a new couture collection which includes pantsuits, soft "with-it" dresses, costumes and feminine pants ensembles—perfect garb for entertaining. The line is called "Private Label."

It is a beautiful collection and the two men responsible are Paul Schnell, who designs for both of the firm's divisions, and Charles Dickey, who was "imported" from Texas to father the new prestige collection as design consultant.

Dickey, who had his own couture business in Dallas for 16 years, shut up shop to go to the California firm because he believed the invitation to create a young "missy" line for a conservative, renowned house was a challenge. He now calls the Private Label line "my baby."

"I expect it to be one of the most important collections to originate on the West Coast," he said.

It may well be. Aside from the use of beautiful and unusual fabrics, it takes the whole costume approach and gives it a delightfully young look with dresses, coats, suits, maxis, pantsuits and minipants.

No phase of the garment industry has escaped the creative, yet business-mind, Charles Dickey. A native Texan, after attending SMU, head crammed with fashion know-how, he became a buyer for a women's specialty store and later joined Jim Fillet, a fabrics firm in Mexico. He designed clothes in their fabrics for export to the United States. Later, he worked for Ruth Fare, a Texas firm, as designer. And he left that job to open his own business.

His Private Label collection for Ernst Strauss reflects the experience and talent he built up over his years in "the rag race."

Dickey, known as one of the few couturiers in Dallas, should earn the same distinction in California.

As the clothes turn up in stores across the country, they will be recognized as a perfect interpretation of today's fashion.

SUMMER WORK-AS-YOU-TRAVEL PROGRAMS

Dear Helen, I've heard you can almost make your own way on a "see the world" trip overseas, if you know how to find work along the way. Can you give some pointers?—HOPE-FUL TRAVELER

P.S. I'm a college sophomore. Dear Traveler: Write to the United States National Student Travel Association, Inc., 70 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10011. This non-profit organization is the only official student travel bureau in the United States. It offers young people access to a whole network of special discounts, transportation and travel programs abroad. It also guides them to overseas jobs—and there are some 50,000 openings each summer—but you must apply early preferably right now, but not later than May.

This year a student identity card (providing many discounts) is also available to pre-collegers, 15 years or older.—H.

Dear Readers: While we're on the subject of summer jobs, here are some tips:

1. Best-paying student jobs are usually with the government—state, national or city. You must often take tests for these, so apply NOW, for such tests are already being scheduled.

2. Determine what jobs you are best qualified for (clerical, playground assistance, service station or supermarket work, whatever interests you) then type a letter of application to each employer. Make it neat and concise, for this is your introduction. If you letter makes a good impression, you'll be called in for an interview... or you'll be sent an application form to fill out in detail. Sometimes you can save days or even weeks by picking up application forms at various personnel offices.

3. Don't use the scatter-gun approach, seeking anything that is available. Apply for a specific job, and keep copies of your applications. Don't stop with one. Try several organizations—and keep trying, in spite of turn-downs.

4. If you are sure the company provides no application blanks, your first letter of application will have to do the trick. Give a brief resume—your name, address, telephone number, age, education, school, attending, length of time you can work, qualifications (including previous employment, school honors, extracurricular activities—anything that relates to the job you seek). Then give the names and addresses of at least three references. It's always well to enclose a photograph—and make sure it fits the "corporate image." Long-haired, bearded fellows and way-out looking girls go to the back of the line on summer work opportunities.

5. When you are called in for an interview, remember first impressions can make or break you. Clothes should be neat and conservative—let a parent be the judge. Answer questions fully, and don't ramble on. Indicate that you are interested in the job, not just the money—and be sure you know enough about the organization to talk intelligently. Don't undersell yourself but don't brag. Don't worry about "looking scared." Adults tend to view over-confident young people with suspicion.

6. Last keep your ears and eyes open. Most of you know someone who is already employed, and that friend can often alert you to a vacancy. Get the word around that you're looking for a job, not only to school counselors but to friends of your parents.

Good luck!—H.

Notice

Hempstead County Democratic Women's Club will not meet the month of February.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN MEET

The Hempstead County Republican Women's Club met in regular meeting with Mrs. Paul Klipsch, President, presiding at a short business meeting. Mrs. Lynn Harris brought the program. She presented the need of the schools for more money. She gave a very dark picture of the situation and felt that the raise of the millage rate by 10 mills is vital to these needs: a vocational expansion program, land acquisition, a competitive teacher salary schedule and instructional materials. Hope schools pay next to lowest teacher's salaries in this area.

After her presentation the Club voted unanimously to support the 10 mills raise at the March 10 election.

MISS MCLELLAND HONORED WITH KITCHEN SHOWER

On Wednesday, January 28, Mrs. Tommy Montgomery and Mrs. Roger McLelland honored Miss Martha McLelland, bride-elect of Herb Plumlee, with a kitchen shower in the Montgomery home.

The honoree was presented a corsage of clever kitchen utensils.

During the evening those present wrote their favorite recipe for the future bride and presented them to her.

From the serving table, the guests were served cookies, nuts, and punch.

Miss McLelland received many lovely gifts for her future home.

STEAK BENIHANA

For each serving use:
Two large mushrooms, sliced vertically
One six-to-eight ounce trimmed sirloin steak
Monosodium glutamate (sparingly)
Salt and pepper

1 tablespoon peanut oil
1 cup white rice, boiled

Pour oil on hot griddle, sear steak on both sides. Remove to cutting board and cut into bite-size pieces. Return to grill and place mushrooms on grill. Turn meat slices until done to taste. Mix with mushrooms, season with salt and pepper, and serve over boiled white rice, with magic mustard sauce on the side to dip steak in.

MAGIC MUSTARD SAUCE

1/4 cup dry mustard (use less for milder sauce)

1/4 cup water

2 tablespoons heavy cream

1/2 cup soy sauce

1 tablespoon sesame seeds, crushed

1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

In small mixing bowl, combine mustard and water, to make a paste. Stir in cream and soy sauce. Crush seeds with mortar and pestle and add to mixture with lemon rind. Four servings.

Malcolm X School Has Its Troubles

By RICHARD DAW

Associated Press Writer

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Four months after opening its doors, an experiment in black separatist education called Malcolm X Liberation University is beset by controversy and pressed for funds. But its founder isn't giving up.

"We're planning now for another year of operation or maybe two more years," says Howard Fuller, a 29-year-old former social worker.

"With the kind of institution we're trying to develop and the kind of reaction it causes, one can't get too optimistic and think in terms of 10 years or 15 years," Fuller said in an interview. The school was named after the militant black leader who was slain after he split away from the Black Muslim movement.

Fuller opened his unorthodox — and unaccredited — university last October in a converted warehouse alongside railroad tracks in a run-down Negro section on the edge of Durham's business district.

"It took a long time to convince my husband to let me color my hair," she said. "He's old-fashioned and he wanted me to 'grow old gracefully.' But I just wasn't taking an interest in myself. Now, I enjoy buying new clothes and I'm wearing more make-up."

Some women say that their children convinced them to have their hair colored.

"My son was ashamed of me," said one woman. "He didn't want me to go to school functions because he thought my gray hair made me look older than the other mothers. His teacher even told me my appearance was affecting him."

Once they start coloring their hair, most women never stop. And it's not only women who want to hide gray hairs who use color.

"Blond is still the biggest hair color," said Rene Swift, color marketing director for John H. Breck, Inc. "And sales are big in the 18-34 age group."

Hair coloring can be a costly process when done professionally. Consequently, 40 per cent of the women who color their hair, treat their own. Which sometimes leads to disaster.

"Women have trouble getting even color," said Jim Snyder, who runs the Breck color-testing salon. "That's because color takes differently to different sections of hair, depending on its fiber. Color should be applied for uniformity."

Many women who use home products find their hair rough, brittle and splitting after using the color treatments.

"Women should watch the shampoo they use," Snyder explained. "The gentler, the better. Shampoos with a soap rather than a detergent base work best. And conditioning is important."

Some shampoos contain their own conditioners, others can be used in conjunction with a conditioner.

"One way to avoid hair damage," Jim explained, "is to have conditioner in the hair-coloring product itself."

At the hair-testing salon the Breck people seek the best coloring formula.

"We test for irritation, sensitivity and color results," said one consultant.

"We patch-test heads, coloring only one section to try out the formula. Then we test the color on 25 to 100 women."

Rhoda Feldman is typical of the salon's experimental clients. Married to a television producer and the mother of two children, she was turning prematurely gray in spots, so that her hair was more salt than pepper.

Rhoda sat running her hands through hair which had the consistency of steel wool. She explained that the hair coloring she had used had damaged her hair.

Coloring Own Curls Can Be Hair-owing Experience

By JOYCE GABRIEL

NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Women have been bombarded with the "accent on youth," the "blondes have more fun" philosophy, the "look 10 years younger" line—and they're reacting. More women than ever are coloring their hair.

The reason isn't purely aesthetics. Women want to look younger to feel younger. And gray hair doesn't make for a youthful image.

"I finally decided to have my hair colored," said Mrs. Quinn, a housewife and mother of eight from Flushing, N.Y.

Mrs. Quinn, a pretty woman, had hair color that was fading fast, making her look older than her 30 years.

"It took a long time to convince my husband to let me color my hair," she said. "He's old-fashioned and he wanted me to 'grow old gracefully.' But I just wasn't taking an interest in myself. Now, I enjoy buying new clothes and I'm wearing more make-up."

Q—In military funerals, what does the riderless horse symbolize?
A—The riderless horse and reversed boots, symbol of fallen military leaders since the time of Genghis Khan, is a tradition that dates back to ancient civilizations, when a warrior's horse often was sacrificed at his funeral.
Q—How can a tree be readily identified?
A—A "tree detective" can identify a tree by its leaves. Each kind of tree grows leaves of a particular shape, design and arrangement.

B Bears In Victory, Kittens Lose

HOPE (AP) — The Bears won a close, but not the Bears, in the overtime, 89-87.

Magnolia scored first, but with 1:10 left, Lynn Horton hit a free throw to lead the Bears. Horton and Tommy Webb hit baskets to tie the score at 11-11 with 1:10 left in the quarter.

Super Newton traded baskets with Magnolia and Horton added four other points to give the Bears a 15-13 lead at the quarter.

The Panthers got the lead back on two consecutive baskets before Steve Harris hit two and Newton traded points for a 19-15 lead.

Magnolia broke away for a 21-19 lead and kept their lead through the half at 30-27. Charles Rateliff had 5, Norton 2, and Webb 1.

In the second half, Norton and Newton combined quickly to knot the score at 32 all. Magnolia then broke away for a 40-36 lead until with 2:20 left, Webb hit two jumpshots to bring the score to 40 all. Two more points each by Newton and Harris put the Bruins in front 44-43 with 0:41 left.

The Panthers got a free throw and Harris got two for a 46-43 Hope lead at the quarter's end.

Harris and Rateliff put the Bruins ahead 50-46 early in the last segment before Magnolia came back to tie the score with 4:53 to go.

Baskets by Norton, Newton, and Webb gave Hope a 58-52 lead, but quick turnovers gave Magnolia six points to tie the score at 58 all, and more the game into overtime.

Rateliff and Harris kept Hope alive and the Bruins needed a basket by Norton with 0:02 left to stay in the game.

Magnolia took a 65-64 lead on a free shot but seconds later Norton hit two. The Panthers got the lead back with 1:14 to go, but with 0:43 left Norton hit the winning basket on a jumper.

This raises Hope's record to 7-4 while giving Magnolia's B-team its first loss of the year.

In the second game the Yerger Junior Bobkittens fell by a large score of 45-21, lowering their record to 6 and 9.

Hope stayed in the game early but fell behind as the first half wore on.

The Panther Cubs drew first blood on a pair of free throws by Mike Crumpler but a basket by Don Lively tied the score.

Buddy Ingram and David Huddleston hit free throws to pull Hope in front, 4-2. Two free throws by Ingram and a basket by Lively gave the Kittens a 7-6 lead with 1:47 left but Hope went on a cold streak and the quarter ended with the Panther Cubs in front, 14-8.

Somewhat Hope went cold in the second stanza and the Magnolia team built up a 26-8 half-time lead.

In the second half Magnolia kept rolling up the score while limiting Hope to only 13 points.

Jimmy Smith hit two free throws to trail, 26-10. Then Joyce unleashed five to trail, 30-15 with 0:48 left in the third segment. The quarter ended 34-15.

Three points by Ingram and two each by Joyce and Huddleston were all the Kittens could get in the last quarter, while yielding eleven to their opponents.

Bobcats Downed by Magnolia

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sportswriter

Success still awaits the Hope Bobcats. Finishing strongly with a 28-point fourth quarter, the Magnolia Panthers knifed Hope 63-72 last night in a 4-AA inter-divisional contest at Magnolia.

After three periods the tally stood even at 55-55, but the Panthers' tight zone press on defense finally got the turnovers and subsequent baskets that turned the tide.

This is four straight losses for the Bobcats, who fall below the .500 mark for the first time at 9-10, and Hope has an open date this evening.

Four weeks back Magnolia had won 52-47 behind the outside shooting of swingman Jerry Caldwell, but this time the Panthers got leadership from soph Lathell McKeller and others like Randy Ross, Billy Daugherty, and Howard Martin.

In the first minute Hope jumped in front 3-2 before falling into a deficit of three to four points for quite a while.

Two turnovers gave Magnolia a 13-7 margin after five minutes, but the Cats stayed close with the inside work of John Dudley. Fouls abounded, but a couple of tips by center Martin gave the Panthers a 21-15 spread at the quarter.

That tremendous abundance of fouling was to later hurt Hope, but for now the Cats had all they could handle with the UCLA diamond-zone type of press that Magnolia was using.

Once the Bobcats fell seven behind at 30-23, but fought back to 31-29 before two very quick steals and baskets made it 38-30 Magnolia.

At half-time the Panthers led 38-33, and Hope had foul trouble to worry about with Larry Muldrew (4) and various other starters and participants with three personals.

That third frame was Hope's, playing without leading scorer Muldrew and a quintet composed of sophomores Dudley and David Briggs along with juniors Charles Frazier, Ronnie Massanelli, and Parker Powell.

Free throws provided the only scoring in a two-minute span, as Magnolia held onto a 45-42 lead. Then Frazier hit a three-point play for the Cats to tie it up.

Moments later guard Briggs popped from 20 feet, and Hope finally led it 49-47 with 2:34 showing in the segment. Dudley and Frazier kept the Cats in there on the board for a little while, producing the 55-55 reading entering the finale.

Ross hit a 10-footer quickly for a 57-55 Panther advantage, then both teams missed connections a few times both from the field and the foul line. But the game was won, or lost, by a sequence of six seconds.

Still down 57-55, Hope had the ball out in the backcourt. But Powell threw right into the hands of Magnolia guard Daugherty, who hit an easy layup. Then came still another bad pass which Howard Martin converted into a field goal to leave it 61-55.

With 6:25 to go the Bobcats still had plenty of a chance, but Magnolia got the momentum in those few seconds and didn't lose it again.

Suddenly too, in a minute's time, Magnolia hit six consecutive points for a 65-59 reading, before the mass foul-out procession started.

Actually it got back to 72-68 with 1:41 showing, but then Muldrew had fouled out, as had Massanelli and Powell, leaving Magnolia to run their normal offense. Five foul shots in the last minute sealed it.

It is a disappointing loss when one feels he had it in reach, and several have fallen this way for the Hope Bobcats. But the team does not have to delegate itself to being losers, with the ability on hand.

Things will be rough this week, as the Bobcats return to 4-AA West with two tough roadtrips at Arkadelphia Friday night and Malvern on Saturday evening. The goal is to be ready by then.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Three

champions were crowned Thursday night as the second round of the four-day U.S. Figure Skating Championships drew to a close before more than 4,000 spectators at Tulsa's Assembly Center.

Petite Juli McKinstry, the youngest and smallest competitor in the women's events, was awarded first place in the junior ladies finals, and the favored California team of Kenneth Shelley and Jojo Starbuck captured the senior pairs championship.

Thirteen-year-old Juli, of San Rafael, Calif., was greeted with a resounding round of applause as she completed her program. The 4-foot-10, 83-pound prodigy demonstrated amazing skill and grace, and left no doubt as to the eventual winner.

Shelley and Starbuck, a pair of 18-year-olds who have been skating together for almost ten years, showed why they were rated favorites as they swept to first place in the senior pairs.

Bulls Have to Snap Out or Miss Playoffs

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Bulls had better snap out of their doldrums in the next couple of days or face the possibility of missing the National Basketball Association playoffs.

A 197-105 loss to the San Francisco Warriors Thursday night dropped the Bulls from third place into fifth place in the Western Division of the NBA as the Bulls suffered their 10th loss in their last 12 games.

Things, however, figure to get tougher for the Bulls over the weekend. The Bulls invade Atlanta Friday night to face the division leading Hawks and then come home Sunday for what turns out to be a doubleheader against the same Hawks.

The two teams will face off with a 124-124 tie and one second to play as the result of a protest game last Nov. 6. An official's ruling had disallowed a final second basket by Tom Boerwinkle which would have netted the tie but NBA Commissioner Walt Kennedy ruled in favor of the Bulls and thereby created the tie.

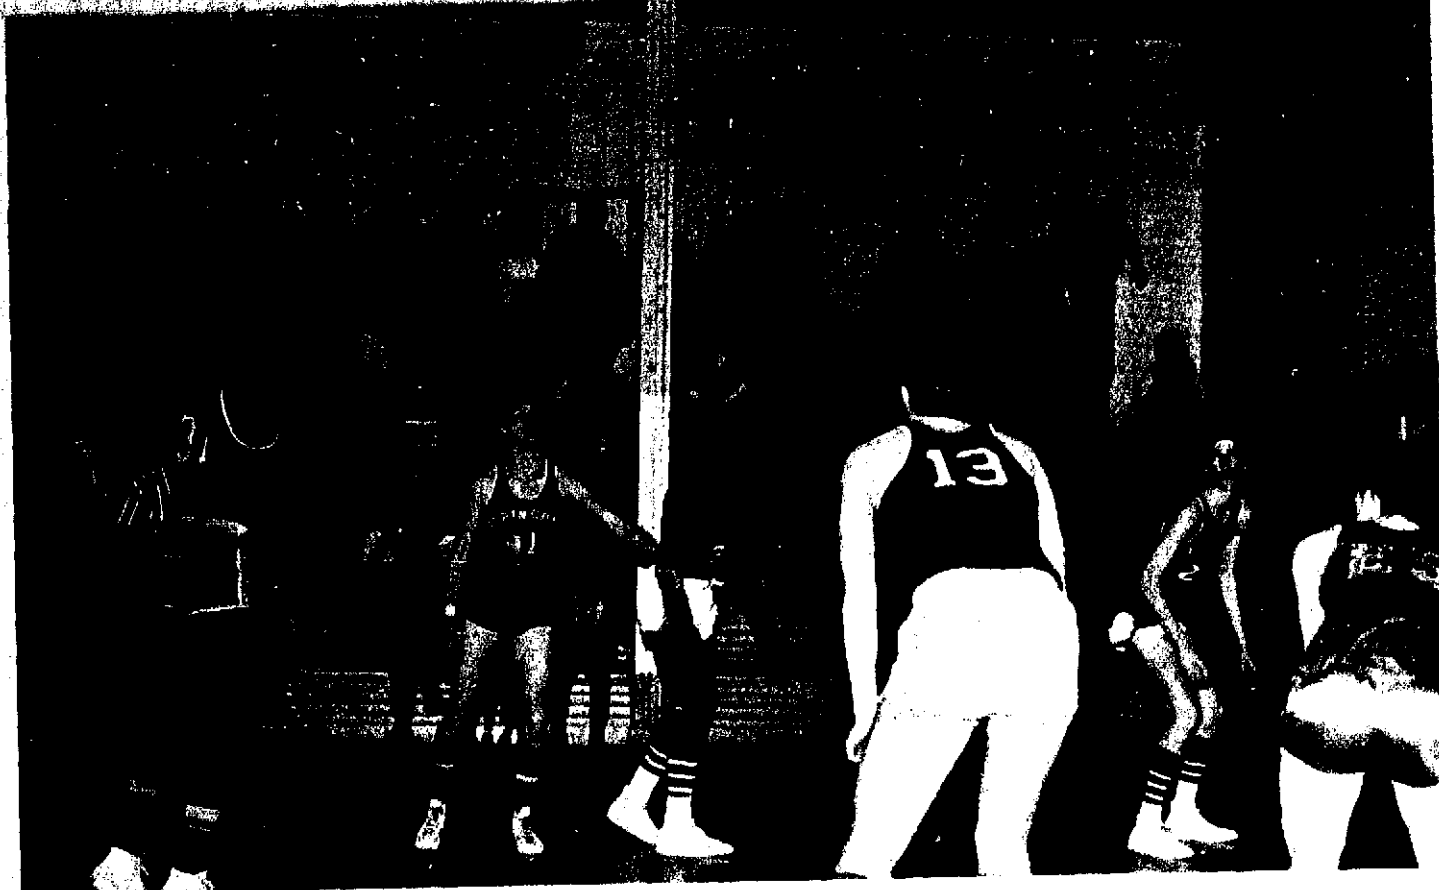

With one second to play, chances are the game will go into overtime and after a decision has been reached the two teams will engage in a regulation game.

The Bulls had hoped to gain ground against the Warriors Thursday night in the NBA's only game since San Francisco's Jeff Mullins, the team's leading scorer, had been ruled out for two weeks with a cracked bone in the right knee.

Chicago took a 7-2 lead but the Warriors bounced back to grab a 35-22 first quarter lead and then slugged their way to a victory as Joe Ellis led the way with 26 points and Clyde Lee added 25. Jerry Lucas chipped in with 23 and pulled down 21 rebounds.

Bob Love was the Bulls' leading scorer with 26 points but got 17 of them in the final quarter when the Bulls were completely out of contention.
